

Intro to Communications Through the Eyes of Superheroes and Villains!

Friday | 2:00 PM - 2:50 PM | Via Zoom and/or in-person

Instructor: Gabby Sharp

It is safe to say...the Avengers have small group communication, Batman has an aggressive communication style, and Captain America has an assertive yet respectful communication style. Yet, each Superhero has one thing in common...they all need to have good communication skills! Expressing themselves in order to achieve their goals and overcome their obstacles is a must for them...and also for us! Villains need to communicate too, even if it is without good intentions.

By taking this interactive class via online or in person, students will be offered the unique experience to learn effective communication skills through examples led by beloved superheroes. Students will learn to compare successful communication vs poor communication styles through favorite movie clips and scripts. Students will be taught and shown how negatively communicating with words or body language adversely impacts a hero's (or a villain's) ability to succeed via class discussions and presentations. Students will be challenged to translate all of this into their everyday lives by identifying their own communication style(s) and improving upon communication techniques such as active listening and checking for understanding.
